Thinking Out Loud

By H. M. L.

One of the questions that occurs to reasonable men everywhere, as the flames of war eat their way farther and farther from their beginning in Berlin, is whether 80 million Germans even completely victorious could dominate the world of over a billion human beings. It is a large question of course. For some centuries Rome did dominate the known civilized world, as civilization was then defined. But that was in a world of very slow industrial and communication facilities. Weapons tools and conveyances were hand wrought. It was a world, in which most of the time, more people were slaves than were free.

The centuries of Roman domination are sometimes spoken of as the Pax Romana. But this is a misnomer. There was no long sustained period of peace. Somewhere around the perimeter of Roman control there was usually a war of conquest going on. In those days war was a slow fire. Today it is swiftly burning conflagration.

In such a conflagration men and materials burn rapidly. In general we may conclude that Germany is consuming, as an aggressor carrying on a constant offensive war, more men and materials than her adversaries. While Hitler does replenish his wastes of men and materials from captive nations, labor for his mines, fields and factories, and food from the larders of subjugated peoples, his rate of consumption, especially in the present battle with Russia, must exceed the rate that all his sources can supply.

On the other hand the United States, Great Britain, and in lesser degree, China, the Dutch East Indies, India, and some of the smaller free nations, are constantly adding to their total stocks of war munitions, food and clothing. While Hitler with fire and sword lays waste the granaries of Europe exhausting or crippling natural resources as he marches, his adversaries throughout the world fill their reservoirs of strength.

Among other accumulating weapons of war with which he eventually must reckon are the navies on the high seas, accompanied by clouds of airplanes. It was the unconquerable fleets of the English and Americans which beat the last German upheaval. It will be the fleets plus air power that will again beat this last (we hope) putsch of berserker Germany. Whatever victory Hitler attains in Russia will be too expensive in the long run. For we do not believe for a moment that he will gain the oil fields east of the Caucasus. Both Britain and Russia are too well aware of what that would mean to let it happen. Unless he wins the oil fields, the rest of his territorial acquisitions is of doubtful value.

There are still those who predict a long war lasting anywhere from five to ten more years, and some even prophesy thirty years. We think the end of the war is coming much sooner. It will come because the combustibles that feed the flames will have been burned up. It will come because of the starvation of materials which the fleets are imposing. Japan is a good example of what this can mean. With diminishing oil reserves Japan is practically compelled to continue its adventures in conquest to land sorties, and none of these can be decisive. When the war is over Japan can be compelled very easily to disgorge. Whether it does or not will depend upon the character of the administration in Washington which then will deal with the matter.

The resources of Europe are not nearly so great or important as those of Asia. What can be done in Asia can also be done in Europe. The difference is not in numbers but in the character of the people involved. It may take longer to put an extinguisher upon Germany than upon Japan, which rates, actually, from a war making standpoint, considerably less than Italy.

The world has gone too far up the road of civilization for Hitler to establish in the twentieth century a Pax Germania. Hysteria and force in time will spend themselves, and sooner than many of us think.

HYDRAULICKERS MEET SUNDAY

The California Hydraulic Mining Association November meeting will be held Sunday at Forest Hill, Placer County.

The regular business meeting will follow a dinner at 1 p. m. Secretary W. W. Esterly asks those planning to attend the dinner, which will cost 75 cents, to contact him of Mrs. Dorothy Tripp of Forest Hill.

During the past several months the hydraulic mining assocaition has been holding meetings in historic towns of Northern California. These meetings, reports Secretary Esterly, have been successful and the Forest Hill gathering will probably be the biggest one yet.

BEAR FORAGES ON CEMENT HILL

There's a bear sauntering around Cement Hill. He looks like a hungry bear. Miss Alice Moore, whose hobby is purebred sheep, now beds her flock just below the house and exhorts her watch dog to keep a sharp eye on the forest roundabout.

The bear has been seen by Leslie Orzali as it ambled through his prune orchard on the north side of Cement Hill, and Charles Housel saw bruin as he munched fallen apples in Housel's orchard.

Rev. Ralston urges a large attendance for the outstanding program, which he describes as one of the finest ever arranged locally.

Idaho-Maryland Office Employee Found Dead

The Holmes Funeral Home in Grass Valley prepared today to send the body of George Viera, 53, Idaho-Maryland Mines Corporation office employee for the past seven years, to Oakland for funeral services and burial.

Viera was found dead yesterday morning in his bed at the J. E. Keegan home in Grass Valley, where he roomed.

During his seven years residence in Nevada County Viera become widely known.

Although a couple of inches of rain fell during the past week, the water supply for the resumption of hydraulic operations at the Relief Hill Mine is still not sufficient. It is probable operations will not start for the season at the Relief Hill, managed by C. E. Clark, until about January 1st.

Leslie Machin and his wife, Leona, have started a suit in the superior court here against Julius Brown and Benny Robbins, asking $12,500 general damages and $1225 special damages for injuries allegedly sustained as a result of the negligent driving of Brown, whom, the suit claims, was driving Robbins' car with the latter's permission.

The accident occurred last September 7th.

OFFICER TELLS ROTARY NAVY IS GETTING READY

Lieutenant Sidney P. Murman of the United States Navy was the guest speaker at Rotary luncheon today. Also a guest of honor was his father. Bert Foreman and Gordon Foreman, his son, were guests of the club. The Rev. David Ralston was welcomed as a new member of Rotary. In an appropriate address Judge George L. Jones presented the Rev. Ralston with Rotary ensignia.

Lieutenant Murman's topic was "The Navy and National Defense." His address follows in part:

"Since 1939, with the advent of a second World War, we have become aware of great changes in the relation of sea power to national security. Despite past handicaps the Navy has kept pace with the rapid development of aviation both as to the latest equipment and the most advanced tactics and today the Navy is fortunate indeed to be in possession of the finest and strongest naval air arm in the world. In addition, our surface ships are being rapidly modernized and re-armed to meet the requirements of defense against air attack.

"If our national welfare and way of living are to be preserved, our air arm and sea power must be co-ordinated in the greatest demonstration of defense and offensive strength in world history. If the rights and opportunities for development of American trade are to be guaranteed, this correlated power over sea and air must be maintained. As examples of this correlation in the 12th Naval District, which as you know includes all of California north of San Luis Obispo, there are three major naval developments and many minor ones.

"First, the Alameda Air Station, when completed, will be one of the largest operating air bases in the world. Already the equipment and the furnishings represent an investment of nearly $250,000,000. More building units are already scheduled and many more may follow.

"At this station will be based air patrol and service squadrons and airplane carriers and their plane groups with complete facilities for the maintenance and repair of naval air units. When completed the station will have a maximum capacity of over five thousand men. In addition there will be at least 800 civilian workers in the assembly and repair departments. The Alameda Air Station will be the initial point of a gigantic series of aerial stepping stones across the northern waters to Alaska and the Aleutians, and southward to Hawaii, Guam and Wake Islands, forming a protective wing for the Panama Canal.

"Second, on the Oakland estuary is the huge $20,000,000 Navy Supply Base, now in the process of construction and which, when completed will house $25,000,000 of supplies. In the same vicinity there is the Naval Reserve Air Training Station and the important Coast Guard Training School.

"Third, at Mare Island is located the fourth largest Navy Yard in the nation where about 24,000 men have been working 24 hours a day in the repair, construction and conversion of vessels for the Navy.

"In San Francisco Bay is Treasure Island, now being converted into a section base to service patrol boats and other small craft. At least a million dollars will be spent to convert the present facilities and for added construction. Next door on Yerba Buena Island, are based the Receiving Ship and the Radio and Trade Schools.

"As you have heard the Coast Guard is working in close co-opera--

TAHOE FOREST REPORTS CHRISTMAS TREE CUTTING IN FULL SWING

The annual cutting of Christmas trees on the Tahoe National Forest is now in full swing.

At this time of the year red fir or "silver tips" are being cut and stored in cool shady places at higher elevations. These trees are shipped at a later date, just before the heavy winter snows set in, to the larger cities and placed in cold storage until sold to the public just before Christmas. Ranger F. A. Land advises that cutting of white fir will start at a later date as the needles of this tree turn brown and drop off more quickly than the silver tip species.

Experienced Christmas tree cutters and dealers find their location during the months of August and September, and make complete arrangements with the land owners to cut the trees and provide means of transportation when the trees are cut. Due to the scarcity of good trees cutters extensively employ mule pack trains and tractors in getting the cut trees to the nearest highway or other usable roads for motor transportation to the cities. Many inquiries are being received by the rangers for additional trees, but all available government and private land administered by the forest service have been sold to reliable dealers.

Many persons wishing to harvest and market Christmas trees think all that is necessary is to come to the mountains and cut whatever trees they think can be marketed. This is not the case, however, and any person apprehended following this practice is subject to a fine, according to state law. It is required that each cutter and transporter of Christmas trees have a written permit, duly notarized from the owner of the land from which the trees are taken and a certified shipping permit signed by state authorities or by federal forest officers, federal and state law enforcement officers are carefully patrolling the highways and other roads for illegal cutting.

Fire Chief Opposed To New Truck

SOME FIRE EATERS WANT TO PURCHASE $7,800 ENGINE

Nevada City will not have a new $7,800 fire truck if Fire Chief Carl T. Larsen has anything to say about it. And it appears Chief Larsen is sitting in the driver's seat.

It leaked out today that there has been considerable agitation among some of the fire eaters for a new truck to replace the present No. 1 engine.

The money? That was easy. It was to come from the $8,000 or so in the bank from the sale of the old Armory Building.

Those in favor of a new truck even went so far as to have a firetruck salesman appear at a recent meeting.

The meeting was a "dud" as far as the new fire truck proponents were concerned because Chief Larsen in no uncertain terms said he opposed the purchase of the new engine. Any new purchase must be approved by the chief so the new fire truck seems unlikely, at least during the present administration.

Chief Larsen in explaining his attitude today said the engine has less than 3000 miles on it and is still in good condition. Those in favor of a new truck said barnacles are destroying the water tank but Larsen said he could find no evidence of that.

The chief said he can see no reason why the $8,000 should be spent on a new truck when that new truck was not needed, and added that the money may come in handy some time time in the future.

LEWIS' "ADVERSARY"

A striking parallel between two Navy day incidents, one in the United States and one in conquered France, is drawn in an editorial in Clem Whitaker's California Feature Service "clip sheet."

One of the incidents was John L. Lewis' defiance of President Roosevelt's urgent appeal to the United Mine Workers' boss to keep the "captive" coal mines operating, and Lewis' statement that "my adversary is a rich man named Morgan, who lives in New York."

The other incident was the brief announcement from Vichy that the long-delayed "charter of French labor" had been placed into effect. This charter dissolves trade unions, confiscates union funds, forbids strikes or lockouts, places questions of hours, wages and working conditions under government dominated "social committees," strips labor of all power and all self-determination. It is Nazi-written, Nazi-enforced, the feature service editorial points out.

The editorial then makes this observation:

"When France was in position comparable to that of the United States of today—still master of her soul and captain of her fate—French labor folded its arms in defense industries, saying: "our adversaries are the rich men of France."

Today French rich men and poor men—worker, boss, banker—are cell mates in a nation that is a prison. The Hitler whom French workers ignored as their adversary is the Hitler whom John L. Lewis ignores today. But Lewis' ignorance will not prove so tragic for this nation; for American labor has the shocking precedent of France to observe—and eyes with which to see."

NOW YOU SEE IT—NOW YOU DON'T

Rubber money—imitation dollar bills that stretched and shrank—used to be sold at county fairs. You bought one and passed it out to your friends as a joke.

Today rubber money is no longer a joke; it's a grim reality. Good U. S. bills are shrinking — not in size but in value. They won't buy as much as they did last year. According to some reports, they won't buy as much next year as they do now. The inflation that congress talked about and did little to prevent is here.

As a result, the housewife who took $10 to market last spring to buy a weeks food for her family is finding that $10 is no longer enough. She needs $11.26 to get the same food now. In the months to come she may need even more. Prices are going up, a penny here, a dime there, week after week.

Government surveys show that pork chops, for example jumped 12 cents a pound in the last six months; eggs soared from 29.4 cents a dozen in March to 46.9 cents in September. Textiles have already gone up 30 per cent in contrast to their 25 per cent rise during the World War period.

Facts like these bring home the menace of inflation. It strikes at everybody's pocketbook. It hits the farmer as well as the wage earner, the housewife as well as the industrialist. And, with every passing month, it's going to hit them harder, unless congress gets busy and passes effective control legislation to put on the brakes and check the trend.

GOING UP!

"In this year's first seven months American manufacturers sent to England nearly twice as many combat planes as were lost defending the British Isles during the whole of 1940" Walter D. Fuller, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, recently used that comparison to illustrate the speed with which American industry has stepped up armament manufacture.

Spectacular as the record for airplanes is, "American ship production is even more spectacular," Mr. Fuller says. "Two hundred destroyers were ordered by the U. S. Navy in 1940, and 197 of them already are listed as 'building.' This is a construction pace superior to that of any two Axis powers combined."

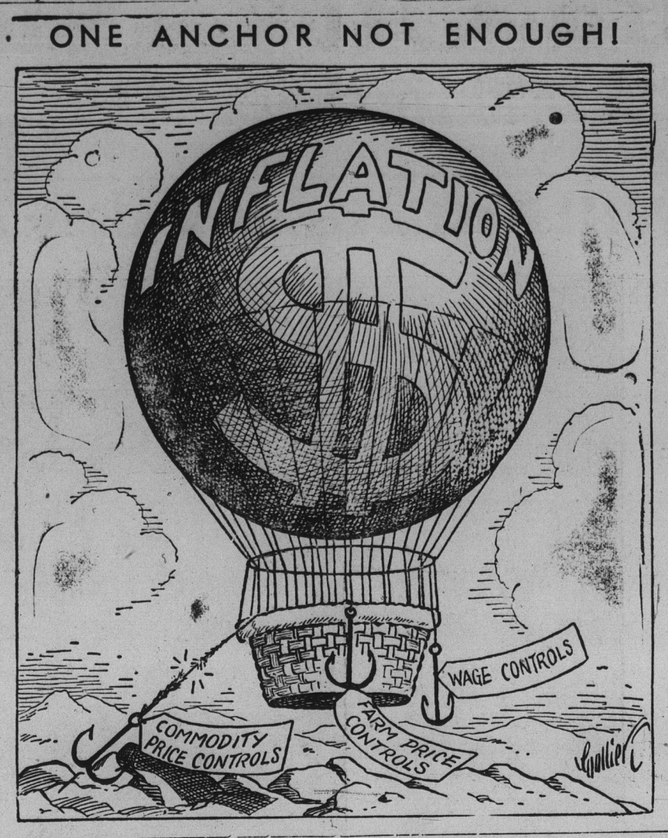
Already the flow of munitions to Great Britain has exceeded anything that Britain received during the last war. And America is just hitting its stride. In the months to come even today's high record will be surpassed. For, as Mr. Fuller points out, "industry, operating as free enterprise, can do the job. Free men working together at a known task in free lands can do the job."

UNFAIR TO SPIES

Foreign agents bent on retarding Uncle Sam's mounting armament production are in for a tough time. Defense factories are installing so many foolproof protective features that the most resourceful spy is apt to find that he's licked before he begins.

In addition to high fences, floodlights, guards and other customary measures of protection, industry is going to extra lengths to insure continuous, safe production of armaments. Whenever possible, factories are being built in clearings in wooded, rolling country to make camouflage easy. Bomb-proof windows, extra fire walls, double-locked doors and the blackout equipment are being provided in many instances. Plant visitors are checked in and out of the building and are often watched carefully all the time they are on the premises. Power rooms are heavily guarded to prevent sabotage.

Today American industry is not only inventing and manufacturing secret weapons; it's doing everything it can to keep them secret.



MIKE DEHNIKE—A TRIBUTE

Through old San Juan the autumn winds were sighing,
The hills you loved were veiled in mists of rain
It seemed that nature in this mood was sharing
Our human burden of regret and pain.
We'll miss you Mike, through all the days before us—
Your voice, your hand clasp and your smile,
And so to ease the pain of parting,
We'll say, "he is not dead, he's absent for a while"

As one who journeys to far, unknown regions,
We'll think of you as faring on your way,
Toward horizons bright with golden promise,
Neath skies that unlike ours, are never sad and gray.
And may the little children run to greet you,
And wander with you toward each radiant dawn,
And may you find new friends as true and faithful
As those you left behind in old San Juan.

We hope you'll find a little home town way out yonder,
Set in the hills among green forest trees,
And may you see fair springtime flowers blooming
And catch the fragrance of western breeze,
And may you hear familiar voices calling,
As friends you loved long since and lost a while,
Rush forth to give you joyous welcome.
To clasp your hand and give you smile for smile.

Perhaps you'll linger in the little new found home town
Among the old time pals you used to know,
Perhaps you'll waft there just to bid us "welcome,"
When at last it comes our time to go.
We'd not be lonely if we found you waiting
With out stretched hand and that familiar smile,
And feeling this, we cannot say we've lost you,
We'll say "he's only absent for a while."

These are the dreams that comfort and sustain us,
And we shall hold them as we journey on,
So farewell Mike, may every prospect brighten,
But oh, we miss you so in old San Juan. —A. Merriam Conner.

SNIFFLE SEASON

Come fall months, comes the sniffle season. That old blow-hard, the common cold, is back again, plaguing its unhappy victims and baffling the best of our medical experts.

Earlier this month, the Gallup poll found no fewer than 13 million Americans afflicted with colds, with the Pacific Coast in front rank in number of sufferers. Consider the enormous waste this represents in work delayed, in wages lost, in lowered vitality and efficiency!

Though the common cold holds first place as the most contagious type of disease known, years of painstaking research have so far yielded no really reliable means of attacking or forestalling it. Far more deadly diseases have long since been vanquished by the brilliant and often heroic experimental work of medical men. But to date, the obstinate common cold has refused to tell what its secret weapon is.

However, if science can't offer a definite remedy, it can tell us what to do about colds. The surest remedy is rest and the most reliable preventative treatment is to follow the dictates of common sense. Get plenty of sleep, moderate exercise, and follow a well-balanced diet.

tion with the Navy.

"Every naval activity ashore is devoted to the maintenance of a hard hitting force at sea. The battleship is still the backbone of our Navy and the experiences of the present war show that it will be for some time to come. Today it is the latent power behind the blockade of the European continent, and all other naval operations for that matter, just as it was from 1914 to 1918. The strength of the battleship is indispensable in defeating any attempt to invade the western hemisphere. Failure of the attempted invasion would be certain as long as our battle force held its position to prohibit advance of a mapor concentrated hostile force.

"As a result of the expanding building program, which practically doubles our "treaty" tonnage, the question of adequate, trained personnel has become exceedingly important. To man our future Navy of vessels, auxiliaries and planes we will need afloat and ashore a total of approximately 35,000 officers and more than half a million enlisted men, not to mention an almost equal number of civilian employees. Such a force may not be maintained in full commission in normal times or be composed entirely of regulars. A reserve of officers and men to be drawn from all parts of the Nation is required.

"Ashore, Naval Intelligence, which is mainly an organization made up of reserves, requires officers and men who have had a background of education and experience fitting them for investigation work.

"We live today in the most serious time in all our history. We have seen countries invaded that not even armed. We have learned that to be unarmed or unprotected is to invite hostile attack, invasion and national destruction. We know at present that the only way to forestall attack is to be stronger than all of those who would attack us. We know modern war is different from its predecessors in that the objective is not only to defeat the enemy's armed forces, but also to defeat its civilian population, if possible, by attack from without and subversive means from within.

"Gentlemen, the time to organize a defense as costly and as slow of completion as that required today is before and not after the British power is weakened; it is before and not after a "Dunkirk"; it is before and not after aggression has been committed in the Americas."

FUNERAL HELD HERE TODAY FOR RAYMOND TEALE

Funeral services were conducted at the Holmes Funeral Home here this afternoon for Raymond Teale, 57, Nevada City taxidermist, who died in the Community Hospital in Grass Valley Tuesday morning from a fractured skull suffered in a fall at the Sierra Hotel.

Coroner A. M. Holmes, Chief of Police Max Solaro and Sheriff Carl J. Tobiassen, who investigated, believe the fall was accidental.

There were no eyewitnesses to the fall but it was apparent, the investigating officers stated, that Teale had fallen down the stairs leading to the basement in the hotel, striking his head. An autopsy by Dr. B. W. Hummelt revealed death was due to a skull fracture.

Teale had made his home in Nevada City for more than 20 years. He was considered an excelent taxidermist and mounted many animals and deer heads.

Severa years ago Teale's father, James Teale, who was a descendant of the rescuers of the Donner party, passed away in this city.

The only surviving relative of the deceased is his mother, Mrs. Rose Teale, of San Francisco.

GRACE MOORE TO SING IN CONCERT AT SACTO. NOV. 10

Grace Moore, beautiful blond American leading soprano of the Metropolitan Opera Company, will be heard November 10th in the second event of the Sacramento Music Series "Greater Series" for the year. Miss Moore, a world wide favorite of kings and presidents, as well as a star of radio, concert, motion pictures and opera, has planned a program of songs and operatic arias for which she is famous.

Exclusively American trained, Miss Moore's first conquest was the little town of Jellicoe, Tenn., where she was born. Here, on Sundays, like the angelic host, she lent her voice to the salvation of hesitant sinners and the sanctification of the saved.

But "Across the Alps lay Italy."

In other words, beyond the Cumberland Mountains lay the bigger world of accomplishments. And so, on to Washington, the nation's capital, went the intrepid Miss Moore. It was not long before she had a real concert date, in which she shared the program with Giovanni Martinelli of the Metropolitan Opera.

Encouraged by her success, she proceeded to New York, and folowed the dull routine of voice study, stage deportment, language, etc., and to provide the cost of all these lessons, she sang in musical comedy.

Her first starring vehicle was "Up In the Clouds" which was after all, quite an appropriate setting for a future star. Later, she drew crowds to Irving Berlin's "Music Box Revue."

A year of study in Europe followed. Returning to America, she made her Metropolitan Opera debut February 7, 1928, in the role of Mimi in "La Boheme" Her reengagement followed each season, triumph has followed triumph—Mimi, Manon, Juliet, and finally Louise.

Sacramento remembers Grace Moore from a concert here almost ten years ago, and more recently, from the movie, "One Night of Love" in which she sang the role of Cio Cio San in "Madame Butterfly" with Tullio Carminnati in the role of conductor.

Tickets for her porformance November 10th are on sale now at the Ware-Hazelton box office in Weinstock-Lubin's.

HARVEST HOME SUPPER

We were spreading old table cloths over the improvised tables we had set up in the basement of the church for the Harvest Home Supper. When the tables were covered, we would arrange yellow pumpkins and purple egg plant and crook-necked squash and corn with the husks turned back as centerpieces on each of the tables.

"Just as we've been doing all our lives!" Kitty Phillips commented a little wearily. "I think I began fixing centerpieces like this when I was ten and I'll probably still be doing it when I'm ninety."

"Yes, and we keep on doing things in the good old American way. Do you realize that this is one of the few countries left in the world today where people can do things the way they did when they were children and as their fathers and mothers did before them?

Charles E. Everhart, executive officer of the Tahoe National Forest here, has received notification of his transfer to the Mono National Forest headquarters in Reno, effective January first.

Everhart has been given a permanent appointment as administrative assistant to a supervisor. It is a distinct advancement for Everhart, who has been connected with the Tahoe Forest here for the past several years.

During the last six months Everhart has been acting administrative assistant of the Tahoe forest. Previously, he had been chief clerk here.

Everhart's many local friends are expressing regret at his transfer but are congratulating him for the promotion. Everhart has been a progressive citizen and has taken an active interest in the affairs of the city.

Everhart's place here will be filled by A. M. Longacre, administrative assistant of the Cleveland National Forest in San Diego.

Simultaneous with the announcement of Everhart's transfer notice was given that Alvin Miller ,acting chief clerk here, will return to the Sierra Natoinal Forest at Northfork on November 10th. On January 1st, Miller will become chief clerk of the Trinity National Forest at Weaverville.

Miller's position on the Tahoe will be filled by Daniel McKenzie of the Shasta National Forest. McKenzie is due to arrive here on December 10th.

BIRD LOVERS VISIT TEEMING VALLEY REFUGES

Several hundred thousand ducks, including eleven varieties, were observed in the Marysville-Chico-Willows area by C. A. Harwell, California representative of the National Audubon Society, on November 1 and 2, when he conducted the first of a series of two-day wildlife tours being held this month. With other participants in the society's nature study tours, Harwell saw Mallards, Gadwells, Widgeons, Baldpates, Pintails, Green-winged Teal, Blue-winged Teal, Shoveler or Spoonbill, Bufflehead and Ruddy Duck.

At the Gray Lodge Refuge, maintained by the State Fish and Game Commission, Lawrence Cloyd, superintendent, estimated that there were close to two million ducks. Approximately half of the 2,540 acres of this refuge is under water, and hence since it has a growth of tules, the place is most attractive to migrating water-fowl.

Geese number about a tenth of the duck population in this refuge and in the Sacramento National Wildlife Refuge, maintained by the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service. Harwel observed many White-fronted, Gray, Snow and Lesser Canada Geese. Superintendent Peter J. Van Heusen estimated that the Sacramento Wildlife Refuge now has approximately 250,000 ducks and 25,000 geese. One Whistling Swan, precursor of flocks which may later amount to three or four hundred, was observed there.

Great Blue Herons, American Egrets, Brewster's Egrets, bitterns, large numbers of Ring-necked Pheasants and fifty varieties of smaller birds were also seen on the first of the Audubon Society's Sacramento Valley wildlife tours for this November. Information regarding the tours may be secured from National Audubon Society, Room 614, 114 Sansome Street, San Francisco.

GEMS OF THOUGHT

TRUE WEALTH

To have what we want is riches, but to be able to do without is power.—George MacDonald.

My riches consist not in the extent of my possessions, but in the fewness of my wants.—Joseph Brotherton.

Keep down as much as you can the standard of your wants, for in this lies a great secret of manliness, true wealth, and happiness.—William E. Gladstone.

Not oaks alone are trees, nor roses flowers;
Much humble wealth makes rich this world of ours.—Leigh Hunt.

Rest assured that He in whom dwelleth all life, health, and holiness, will supply all your needs according to His riches in glory.—Mary Baker Eddy.

Charge them that are rich in this world, that they be not highminded, nor trust in uncertain riches, but in the living God, who giveth us richly all things to enjoy. — Timothy 6:7.

Trout Planted, Pheasants And Partridges Released In Forest Hill Area

The Forest Hill Rod and Gun Club of Forest Hill with the cooperation of the U. S. Forest Service and the State Fish and Game Division, has planted a total of 125,000 Rainbow trout, released 32 chucker patridge, 140 Mongolian pheasants and 17 Reeves pheasants during the past summer on the Forest Hill divide. District Ranger Beardsley, president of the Forest Hill club has made a special appeal to sportsmen of the area to allow the pheasants and partridge to remain unmolested until they have a chance to go through the following nesting season next year.

Rearing pens for the birds are located at the Forest Hill ranger station and it is hoped to double the number of pens next season. The state furnishes the young birds to the pens where they are held until full grown. They are then released by the Forest Hill Rod and Gun club.

The Mongolian pheasants and chucker partridge are especially adapted to foothills and lower elevations within the forest areas, while the Reeves pheasants are to replace the grouse which seem to be rapidly on the decline, in the higher areas.

ALOMA OF THE SOUTH SEAS HERE SUNDAY

Ever since Cecil B. DeMille split the Red Sea for scenes in "The Ten Commandments," Hollywood special effects experts have been trying to top each other's spectacles.

The hurricane in "The Hurricane" the locust swarms in "The Good Earth," and the earthquake effects in "San Francisco", the typhoon of "Typhoon," all are high spots in spectacle that will long be remembered.

Now Paramount's Tecnicolored "Aloma of the South Seas" which opens Sunday at the Nevada Theatre is expected to be the topper of them all.

The climax of the breath-taking color romance which stars Dorothy Lamour and Jon Hall in a cinematic duplicate of the explosion of Krakatoa—said to be the most terrible cataclysm of all time.

Krakatoa was a volcanic island in the Sunda Straits. "Was"—because in August of 1883, it blew itself off the map. Statistics and experts are responsible for the following:

36,000 persons were killed, Lava pumice and debris was tossed 17 miles into the upper air. The sound of the explosion was heard in Africa 3000 miles away Tidal waves 50 feet high smashed outward —and even were noted in the English Channel! And dust and ash from the volcano actually circled the entire globe, darkening the sun and causing the earth to suffer an unusually bitter winter season.

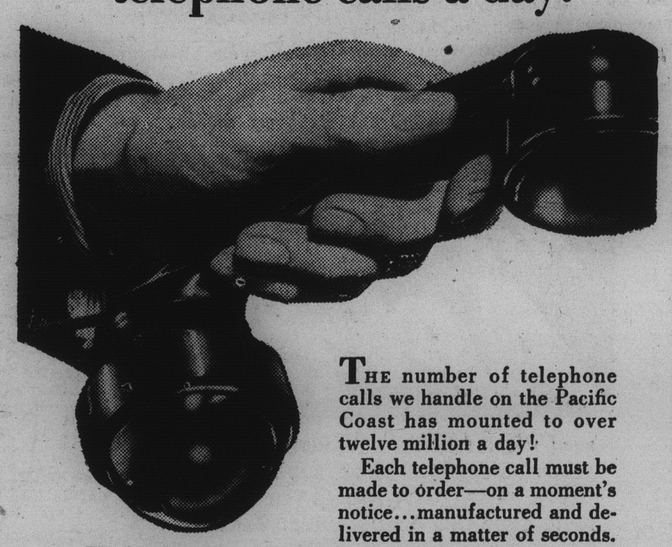
Now—more than 12 million telephone calls a day!



THE number of telephone calls we handle on the Pacific Coast has mounted to over twelve million a day!

Each telephone call must be made to order—on a moment's notice...manufactured and delivered in a matter of seconds.

That's a big job—but it's only part of the job we're doing today as the West hits its stride on National Defense work. Add to this a program of plant additions, this year, in excess of $75,000,000 of which expenditures for new construction alone will be over $62,000,000.

We are making an all-out drive of man power, materials and money to supply the kind of telephone service that will help the Pacific Coast speed its part of America's biggest job.

Barnegat Ranch Offers Guernsey Cup

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 6.—Indicating the whole hearted cooperation being offered to the Grand National Livestock Exposition by agriculturists, Harry B. Cox, of the Barnegat Ranch, Grass Valley, is putting up a valuable silver cup for a special class in the Guernsey cattle division.

This was announced by Harold F. DePue, general manager of the exposition as preparations entered the home stretch for the show which will bring almost two thousand of the nation's finest beef and dairy cattle, horses, sheep and swine to this city's $2,500,000 Cow Palace from November 15 to 22.

Cox is president of the California Guernsey Cattle Club. He has developed, during the last 15 years, a herd of more than a hundred registered Guernseys of which every female has been bred at his farm. His herd always has been on Advanced Register test.

It is a fitting recognition of Cox's practice of breeding a herd and testing for production that this trophy will be offered at the exposition, DePue declared.

"And I've had two pay raises in only eight months! I'll say you can't beat Uncle Sam's Navy!"

YOU couldn't ask for a greater thrill than that which a fellow gets when he comes back home wearing a trim Navy uniform. The folks crowd around. They all want to know where you've been, what you've done. And man, do you have stories to tell!

You're proud. And you should be. For you've been leading the greatest life in the world. And it's a thrill to tell about it, too. And with that promotion came an increase in pay. And there were more to come. Second Class. First Class. And then Chief Petty Officer. Many might even go to Annapolis. Or to Pensacola with the flying cadets!

Exciting? You bet, and fun too. Something doing all the time. Real he-man's stuff. Boxing. Baseball. Football. Swimming. AND MOVIES... previews, too!
